

BA 392: Financial Markets and Institutions

A course which presents an overview of the roles played by the various markets, institutions and financial authorities. Specific topics include an introduction to the U.S. financial system; the supply of, and demand for loan funds; the levels and structure of interest rates; and government and corporate securities and obligations. Emphasis is placed upon policy effects of financial institutions and markets upon various sectors of the economy.

Hours: 3

Prerequisites:

BA 322 and EC 355.

Program: Business

Semester Offered:

Spring