

HN 390: Humanity and Society

What is freedom? What is punishment? How and why do humans create, maintain, and undermine society? Topics addressed may include the self, human nature, freedom, and society through primary texts in psychology, sociology, economics, law, and history, and individual research projects.

Hours: 3

Prerequisites:

HN 100 or HN 300

Program: Honors

Semester Offered:

Fall