

MA 185: Calculus for Business and Social Sciences

This course is designed to provide a calculus background necessary for students in business, management, life science, or social sciences. The emphasis is on using calculus to make statements about real-world applications. Topics to be covered include limits, derivative of a function, exponential and logarithmic functions, and integration.

Hours: 3

Prerequisites:

MA 165 or equivalent.

Program: Mathematics

Semester Offered:

Fall,

Spring