

MS 102: Introduction to the Profession of Arms

Introduces the professional challenges and competencies that are needed for effective execution of the profession of arms and Army communication. Students will learn how Army ethics and values shape the army and the specific ways that these ethics are inculcated into army culture. Students will gain practical experience using critical communication skills.

Hours: 1

Prerequisites:

MS 101 or permission of MS faculty.

Program: Military Science

Semester Offered:

Spring