

PL 150: Biomedical Ethics

This course considers the ethical implications of medical practice and research across many healthcare disciplines. Topics include, but are not limited to, reproductive ethics, ethics across the lifespan (infants, children, adolescents, adults and the elderly), psychiatry, end-of-life issues, and public health ethics.

Hours: 3

Program: Philosophy

Semester Offered:

Fall,

Spring,

Online - Spring