

RE 215: Comparative Sacred Texts

The three monotheistic traditions, Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, will be studied comparatively. Topics within the course include, but are not limited to, the prehistory and history of sacred texts, their creation stories, and how such texts influence worship practices and shape understandings of authority and community, gender, and material culture.

Hours: 3

Program: Religion

Semester Offered:

Fall odd years